Week of 2026-09-27 + Venus Retrograde + Progressed Moon

Week of Sun 2026-09-27 → Sat 2026-10-03

With extended notes on the Venus retrograde arc (Oct 3 – Nov 13, 2026) and the current progressed Moon

Prepared 2026-09-27, Chicago. Revised 2026-09-27 15:15 CDT to integrate the progressed Moon (which the first version omitted). All times America/Chicago unless noted.

The frame you're standing inside

Two contexts sit under everything else this week; naming them once here so the transit list makes sense.

Annual profection. You are 39 → 4th-house profection year, Libra activated, Venus is your Lord of the Year (LoY). The 4th house in Hellenistic practice is home, land, foundations, ancestors, the private base of operations, the roof over your head, the ground under your feet. Your Lord of the Year is amplified for the twelve months from birthday to birthday; every transit involving her lands with extra volume. Natally your Venus is in Aries in the 10th house, in detriment (Aries is Mars's home, and Venus is a guest in a room she doesn't decorate) — so your year is a Libra/4th-house year run through a career-facing, effortful, in-detriment Lord. It is a real year, not an easy one, and its structural theme is making the private base match the public work. The commute problem — teaching too far from home — sits exactly on the seam of this year: Libra 4th (home/base) meets Aries 10th (work/calling), ruled by the same planet.

Zodiacal Releasing from Spirit. You are currently in L1 Cancer / L2 Aquarius — an L2 peak period (the L2 sign is angular from the natal Lot of Spirit in Taurus, tenth house from it) running through Sept 2027. This is a peak chapter for the career-and-calling side of the life-arc. The L2 peak status and the Venus profection year are stacked — the year is loud, and it is loud in the direction of public-facing work (Brennan, Hellenistic Astrology, 2017, ch. 17; Valens, Anthology IV.11–13).

Sect note. Day chart. Jupiter is your benefic of sect; Venus is benefic contrary to sect — she does you good, but as an "out-of-sect" benefic her good tends to be complicated, delayed, or arriving through obstacles rather than clean gifts. Which is exactly the character of the year Venus rules for you, and it colors how to read her upcoming retrograde. (Contrary to sect = the benefic assigned to the opposite chart-type from yours; Ptolemy, Tetrabiblos I.7; George, Ancient Astrology in Theory and Practice, 2019, ch. 3.)

Progressed Moon — the inner-life layer under everything else. Secondary progression is a symbolic-time technique in which each day after birth corresponds to one year of life (Ptolemy attributes it to Petosiris; Rudhyar and Greene developed the modern psychological reading). The progressed Moon in particular is the slowest-moving personal signal, changing sign roughly every 2.5 years; astrologers from Rudhyar forward have treated her sign, house, and aspects as the emotional/inner-life register of the current life-chapter. Where the profection tells you the year's structural topic and transits tell you the weather, the progressed Moon tells you what your interior is currently made of.

Your progressed Moon right now: 23° Sagittarius 04' — in your natal 6th house (Sagittarius = work, service, daily labor, the body, subordinate relationships), ruled by Jupiter (your benefic of sect), applying to conjoin natal Saturn at 20°Sag 17' (orb ~2.78°, tightening toward exact roughly late Nov / early Dec 2026 depending on latitude of measurement). She is simultaneously square your Lot of Fortune at 23°Virgo 45' — orb 0.69°, essentially exact right now.

She ingresses Capricorn in ~6 months (approx. March 2027), at which point the emotional register shifts from seeking-meaning-in-work (Sagittarius 6th) to structuring-work-and-authority (Capricorn 7th). That means: the entire arc from now through spring is the last movement of a Sagittarius-6th progressed-Moon phase that has been running since roughly 2024 — the phase where the inner life is searching for the meaning of the daily labor. You are at its end. What surfaces this fall is what the phase has been building toward.

Why this matters for the school question, plainly: your inner life is at the exact point in its 2.5-year cycle where it is being asked whether your current daily-work arrangement can carry the meaning you need it to carry — and the arrival of Saturn (progressed Moon → natal Saturn conjunction, still 2.78° out but tightening) suggests the answer coming is the honest, structural, load-bearing one, not the reassuring one. This is the psychological substrate under this week's transits and under the Venus retrograde. The retrograde is not happening in a vacuum; it is happening while your progressed Moon is completing a five-year meaning-of-daily-work chapter and preparing to cross a structural threshold.

(Sources: Rudhyar, The Lunation Cycle, 1967, on progressed Moon as inner-life clock; Greene, The Astrological Neptune, 1996, and Sasportas, The Twelve Houses, 1985, on progressed Moon by house; Brady, Predictive Astrology, 1999, ch. 4, on prog-Moon-to-natal-Saturn as a period of consolidation and consequence.)

Sunday 9/27 — Monday 9/28

The astrological event

Transiting Venus sextile your natal Neptune perfects Sun 6:15 AM. Transiting Mercury sextile your natal Uranus perfects Sun 1:27 PM. The Moon is in Aries most of Sunday (waxing gibbous, 90% illuminated), then ingresses Taurus Mon 9:40 AM — crossing over your natal Sun and Mercury by the end of Monday.

Sextile is the gentle, cooperative aspect — 60° apart, planets in signs that share the same polarity (both fire, both earth, etc.). Traditionally read as ease, opportunity, minor benefit — help offered, if you reach for it (Ptolemy, Tetrabiblos I.14; Valens, Anthology II.17).

Located in your chart

Both perfecting sextiles land in signs that constitute your natal 6th (Sagittarius/Uranus) and 7th (Capricorn/Neptune) — the axis of work-and-service (6th) and partnership/contract (7th). The Moon crossing your natal Sun/Mercury (11th house, in Taurus) activates friends, patrons, community, and the voice you use with them.

So that means

Sunday and Monday are the week's opening — the door is open before it starts closing. This is the window to make a phone call, send a résumé, follow up on a lead for a school closer to home, or ask a colleague for an introduction. Venus-to-Neptune sextiles tend to soften communications and read well for anything that involves making a good impression through gentleness (Neptune governs the appearance, the ambient sympathy, the vibe). Mercury-to-Uranus sextiles favor unusual solutions arriving quickly — a lead you weren't expecting, a school you hadn't considered, a listserv post. Monday afternoon–evening, with the Moon on your natal Sun and Mercury, your speech carries — this is a write-emails, speak-plainly, make-yourself-known window. If you have applications to send or letters of interest to draft, front-load them into Sunday–Monday.

Tuesday 9/29 — Thursday 10/1

The astrological event

The core setup for the whole retrograde begins here. Transiting Venus opposition natal Mercury perfects Tue 9/29 1:18 PM (Venus at 8°Sco 13', natal Mercury at 8°Ta 13'). Transiting Sun crosses natal IC (6°Li 33') Mon evening–Tue and conjoins natal South Node (10°Li) on Fri 10/2 around noon. Transiting Sun square natal Neptune perfects Wed 9/30 7:23 PM.

Opposition — 180° apart, planets across the table from each other, sharing a topic from opposite ends. Traditionally: tension, awareness through relationship, having to hold two things at once (Ptolemy, Tetrabiblos I.13). Square — 90°, friction, the aspect that forces a decision or a strain (same source). Conjunction to a natal point — same-degree merge, the transiting body amplifies whatever the natal point signifies.

Located in your chart

- Venus opp Mercury activates the axis your natal Mercury (8°Taurus, 11th house = friends, community, patrons) ↔ transiting Venus in the 5th house (Scorpio = creativity, children, work you do with your students). Because Venus is LoY, this opposition is a headline event, not weather.
- Sun on the IC — the IC is the deepest point of your chart, the base of the 4th house, the foundation stone of the whole structure. It is the "underground" angle: home, ancestry, the ground your life rests on. Sun on the IC of a 4th-house profection year is the annual illumination of this year's central topic — the base.
- Sun conjunct natal South Node (Libra 10°) — the South Node is the release point, the axis of things you are ready to let go of. In Libra 4th it is old arrangements, old accommodations, old placements of home/partnership/base that have run their course (Wolf Green, Pluto: The Evolutionary Journey of the Soul, 1985, on the nodes as karmic axis; softer parallel in Forrest, Yesterday's Sky, 2008).
- Sun square Neptune — Neptune is in your 7th (Capricorn), so a transit-to-Neptune tests clarity in contracts, agreements, negotiations, and the impulse to soften what should stay firm.

So that means

This is the hinge of the week, and it is exactly on-theme for the school search.

Tue–Wed you may notice a specific friction in a communication with a colleague, friend, or patron (Venus/Mercury) — someone in your network is either the doorway to a lead, or an obstacle in front of one; the opposition means it will play out relationally, not in isolation. Because Venus is LoY, this exchange is not trivial — the year is trying to teach you something through it.

Mon evening → Fri around noon, the transiting Sun is walking across the base of your chart and lighting up the very axis of "the home base has to change." Sun on the IC is not a bad thing — it's a spotlight on the foundation. Sun on the South Node adds release, ending, letting-go pressure. Read together: this is the calendar week your year has been building toward — the week the "leave the too-far commute" project sharpens from wish into intention.

Sun square Neptune on Wed evening warns against signing anything binding under fog (a hasty commitment to interview, a firm "yes" to a place you haven't seen with clear eyes). Between roughly noon Wed and noon Thu, favor gathering information over committing to it. Neptune here is asking you not to romanticize a school just because the drive would be shorter. Read applications and job posts carefully; sleep on any decision.

Concretely: Tue–Thu is research and application time, not commitment time. If a school responds fast and pressures a quick "yes," slow it down until at least Friday.

Friday 10/2 — Saturday 10/3 — the pivot

The astrological event

- Transiting Venus conjunct natal Pluto perfects Fri 10/2 3:50 AM (Venus 8°Sco 28', natal Pluto 8°Sco 28' — orb: 1 arcminute).
- Transiting Sun exact on natal South Node (Libra 10°) — Fri around noon.
- Venus stations retrograde Sat 10/3 2:15 AM at 8°Scorpio 29' — one arcminute from natal Pluto. She then reverses.
- Last Quarter Moon Sat 10/3 8:25 AM at 10°Cancer 21' — the Moon is in your natal Ascendant sign, in your 1st house, approaching a square to the just-stationed Venus in Scorpio. The Last Quarter is traditionally the release/reassessment phase of the lunar cycle (four days before Deipnon; not Deipnon itself, but its harbinger).

Located in your chart

- Venus (LoY) stations retrograde on your natal Pluto. Pluto sits in your 5th house (Scorpio) — the house of children, students, creative work, eros, the good spirit. Because you're a SPED teacher, your 5th house is not metaphorical — it is literally your students. Venus (the year's amplifier, out-of-sect, in the sign of her detriment when she's in Aries but currently in Scorpio, also her detriment) turning around on the exact degree of your natal Pluto is one of the loudest single-degree configurations you will experience this year.
- Sun on South Node at the same time — the release axis is illuminated.
- Last Quarter Moon in Cancer — the Moon is your Lord of the Ascendant, in her own domicile, sitting in the 1st house as she perfects. When your Lord perfects a lunation phase in her own house, your interior state is the site of what the sky is doing. You will feel this weekend. It is not an intellectual event.

So that means

This is the pivot of the week and the pivot of the entire October–November arc. Three signals are stacking on top of each other on Fri/Sat:

1. Your Lord of the Year turns around on your natal Pluto — a body that governs what you keep buried, what has weight, what does not compromise, what dies and returns. Venus stationing on Pluto is the year's ruling planet arriving at the buried thing, stopping there, and going back through it.
2. The Sun releases at the South Node — one of the two moments per year the Sun lights up your 4th-house release point.
3. Your Lord of the Ascendant (Moon) is in the 1st, in her own sign, at Last Quarter — you are being asked to reassess, release, and turn inward, at the exact hour Venus reverses.

Practically: Fri and Sat are days to do nothing new that is irreversible. No offer-acceptance. No contract signature. No handing in of a resignation letter at the current school unless you are already certain and have somewhere to go. Emotionally, expect the week to land on your body — Moon on ASC at Last Quarter, with a Venus/Pluto perfection twelve hours prior, is a physically felt configuration. Sleep. Water. Slow food. Slow conversation.

This is a listen-to-what-comes-up weekend. The Venus-Pluto contact tends to surface what you actually want but haven't said out loud — about the current school, about the students you teach, about the commute as a symptom vs. cause. Note what surfaces. Do not act on it yet.

On the Hekatean layer (Austin's practice, not my domain, offered only as timing): the Deipnon window opens Wed 10/14 (dark of the New Moon 10/17). This weekend is not that. Sat 10/3 is Last Quarter, not Deipnon — but the traditional character of the Last Quarter in Cancer with Venus-Pluto perfecting is chthonic in the small key — a good weekend for quiet inward work, cleaning of the domestic altar space if you keep one, small acts of tending rather than large workings. The dark-moon rite is two weeks out; this weekend is preparation, not perfection.

The Venus retrograde — the longer arc (Oct 3 – Nov 13)

This is the part you asked about specifically, and it needs its own frame because it will shape the next six weeks and change what "this week" means in retrospect.

The technical picture

- Venus stations retrograde: Sat Oct 3, 2026, 2:15 AM CDT, 8°Scorpio 29'.
- Venus retrogrades through Scorpio and enters Libra Oct 22.
- Inferior conjunction of Venus with the Sun (the retrograde midpoint — Venus "reborn" as Morning Star): Oct 24, ~11:34 PM CDT, ~1°Scorpio (Sun and Venus both at ~1°Sco, cazimi). This is the heart of the retrograde and traditionally the most consequential single moment of the whole cycle (Brennan, Hellenistic Astrology, ch. 6 on Venus phases; Rudhyar, An Astrological Study of Psychological Complexes, on the Sun-Venus synodic cycle as the archetypal cycle of relatedness).
- Venus stations direct: Fri Nov 13, 6:27 PM CST, ~24°Libra — inside the Libra 4th, your profected sign.
- Venus exits post-retrograde shadow ~ Dec 15, when she re-crosses 8°29' Scorpio going forward.

Venus perfects with your natal chart in this arc as follows

Date	Perfection	Meaning-in-brief
Tue 9/29	Venus (D) opp natal Mercury	first pass — conversation/message
Fri 10/2	Venus (D) conj natal Pluto	first pass — the buried thing surfaces
Sat 10/3	Venus stations Rx on natal Pluto	the year's Lord stops on Pluto
Tue 10/6	Venus (R) opp natal Mercury	second pass — revisit the conversation
Fri 10/24	Venus cazimi Sun @ 1°Sco (not on your natal points but a whole-sky event)	Morning Star rebirth — the midpoint
Fri 11/13	Venus stations direct at ~24°Libra	year's Lord turns around inside your 4th
Tue 12/15	Venus (D) conj natal Pluto	third and final pass — resolution
Tue 12/15	Venus (D) opp natal Mercury	third pass — the conversation completes
Sun 12/20	Venus (D) opp natal Sun	third pass — you are seen fully

Note: Venus never opposes your natal Sun during the retrograde — she opposes Mercury three times but the Sun only once, on Dec 20 direct, on the last leg. This matters. The retrograde is Mercury-and-Pluto weighted, not Sun-weighted.

What this means for your year

You have the year's Lord of the Year — the single most amplified planet in your chart for these twelve months — stationing retrograde on a triple contact to your natal 11th/5th axis (Mercury in Taurus, Sun in Taurus, Pluto in Scorpio) and passing back through your 4th-house profected sign (Libra) for six weeks. In technical terms this is as loud as a personal retrograde gets short of a Saturn return.

The Hellenistic layer (Valens, Anthology IV; Brennan on Venus retrogrades): - Retrograde planets are traditionally read as turned inward, backward-facing, revising what has been done rather than initiating what is new. A retrograde LoY inclines the year to a review, revise, redo character — especially the domains ruled by Venus in your chart: home (Libra 4th, profected), career/reputation (Aries 10th, natally), and the 5th house of students, creative work, and eros (Scorpio, where she's transiting). - Venus in her sign of detriment (Scorpio) retrograde on your natal Pluto is a deepening transit, not a sweetening one. Traditional authorities on Venus retrograde do not read it as "avoid all relationships" — they read it as do not initiate a new arrangement whose whole character depends on Venusian first-impressions and smooth appearances. Interviews, first dates, first meetings with new clients, signings of new contracts of the aesthetic-agreement type (a job offer whose selling-point is "it will feel nicer") are the traditional avoid-list. - Venus is the LoY, so you cannot simply "wait it out" — she is running your year whether direct or retrograde. The technique is work with her retrograde character, not stop functioning.

The psychological layer (Greene, Relating, 1976, on the Venus-Pluto contact as the transformative shape of love and value; Sasportas, The Gods of Change, 1989, on outer-planet contacts to personal planets): - Venus-Pluto contacts tend to strip Venusian veneer and reveal what is actually valuable and what is actually wanted. The natal Venus-square-Pluto (or in your case, transit-Venus-conjunct-natal-Pluto by opposition to the Taurus stellium) traditionally surfaces the difference between what you have agreed to want and what you would want if the agreement lifted. - Because you are a SPED teacher and Pluto sits in your 5th (students, creative work), the arc may surface what you actually feel about your current students, your current school, the specific relationships you have with families, and the specific work you do behind the classroom door. Not to invalidate any of it — to clarify it. - The commute problem may reveal itself as cover for a deeper reassessment, or may prove to be exactly what it looks like (a logistics problem with a logistics solution). Both are legitimate outcomes. The retrograde is the diagnostic instrument; the direct station in November is the moment of clarity; the December completion is the point of decision.

Practical guidance for the retrograde

Do: - Continue researching schools and gathering information. The retrograde does not stop reconnaissance work — it favors it. This is revisit, reconsider, look again at options you had discarded. A school you looked at last year and passed on may deserve a second look. An old contact may reach out. - Have the hard conversations you've been avoiding — with your current administration, with a colleague, with a family member about the shape of your work life. Venus retrograde opposite your Mercury (three times) is literally the transit for the conversation you should have already had. Have it once between Sep 29 and Oct 6 (first pass), let it sit through the Rx, and it will re-open cleaner in mid-December. - Revisit your résumé, your teaching philosophy statement, your interview answers. Anything Venus governs about the presentation of your work — polish it during the retrograde. Do not premiere it. Premiere it after Nov 13 or, more conservatively, after Dec 15. - Attend to home — your profected sign is Libra 4th, and Venus retrograde will be in Libra Oct 22–Nov 13. Repairs, cleaning, rearranging, altar work, small aesthetic changes to the home — all favored during the Libra leg. This is doing the 4th-house work of the year in the window the year's ruler is asking for it.

Wait until after Nov 13 (Venus stations direct), and preferably after Dec 15 (out of shadow): - Accepting a new teaching position. - Signing a lease or making a major home purchase (Libra 4th). - Announcing a decision to your current school. - Any new creative-project launch (5th house — Pluto's territory). - Any new intimate commitment (Venus governs).

Especially delicate: - The three days around Venus's inferior conjunction with the Sun (Oct 23–25). This is the "underworld passage" of the cycle — Venus vanishes as Evening Star and returns as Morning Star. Historically read across many traditions as a symbolic descent-and-return moment (Ishtar, Inanna, the Sumerian source-myth Brennan discusses in Hellenistic Astrology ch. 6). Emotionally these days can feel disproportionate to their apparent triggers. Guard sleep. Do not force clarity. - Sat Oct 3 (the station itself), Fri Nov 13 (direct station), Tue Dec 15 (final Pluto pass). These are the three days the retrograde is at its structural inflection points. Treat them as thresholds.

On the Sun/Mercury/Pluto axis specifically — you named this configuration and you are right to name it. Transiting Venus in Scorpio is the point of your Taurus stellium's reflection — your natal Sun, Mercury, and (implicit) Taurus emphasis are the what you show the world about how you think and who you are, and Pluto in Scorpio is what is under all of that and does not compromise. When the LoY spends six weeks walking back and forth across that axis, the year's central question becomes: is what I show and what is underneath still aligned, and if not, what has to change? For the school search, that translates cleanly: is the teaching identity I've been performing still the teaching identity I actually want to inhabit, or has the commute been the visible symptom of a deeper mismatch? The retrograde will answer this. You do not need to force the answer; you need to make room for it.

How the progressed Moon changes what this retrograde is

The retrograde is not a standalone event; it lands on top of a progressed-Moon configuration that has been building for two years and is nearing its inflection. Three ways the progressed-Moon layer materially shifts the retrograde read:

1. The retrograde is happening in your emotional 6th-house chapter — the daily-work chapter. Progressed Moon in the 6th (Sasportas, The Twelve Houses) is traditionally the emotional phase of examining daily labor, service, health-of-body, the shape of the working day itself. Your progressed Moon has been walking through Sagittarius 6th since roughly early 2024. That means the commute problem you're now trying to solve is not a new problem — it is the arrival at the surface of an emotional theme that has been forming underneath for over two years. You aren't reacting to a fresh irritation. You are consolidating an inner conclusion. The Venus retrograde is the external configuration that lets you name and act on what the progressed Moon has already worked out.

2. The progressed Moon → natal Saturn conjunction is the honest weight. With prog. Moon at 23°Sag 04' applying to natal Saturn at 20°Sag 17' (perfecting roughly late Nov – early Dec 2026, though secondary progressions perfect over months of felt time, not a specific date), you are in the approach phase of a once-in-27-years progressed-lunar-Saturn contact in your 6th house (Brady, Predictive Astrology, on prog-Moon-to-Saturn as a period of realism, consolidation, and the meeting with structural consequence; Rudhyar reads the same aspect as the moment the emotional life asks what has actually been built). Natal Saturn is in your 6th — the ruler of your 7th and 8th houses, retrograde, conjunct Uranus. This is not a soft transit. Read: your emotional life is currently being asked to acknowledge the structural weight of your work situation without softening it, without escapist reframing, without accepting a story that doesn't fit anymore. That is exactly the emotional substrate a Venus-retrograde-on-natal-Pluto needs to do its work. Venus alone might tempt you to redecorate the problem; progressed Moon → natal Saturn will not let you. The commute is real. The distance from home is real. The mismatch (if there is one) is real.

3. Progressed Moon square Lot of Fortune is exact right now — the body/livelihood axis is under tension. The Lot of Fortune governs body, livelihood, material fortune, the physical arc of life; it sits at 23°Virgo 45' in your 3rd (short journeys, local movement, siblings — and, in modern practice, the local commute-and-daily-movement layer). Your progressed Moon square Fortune within a degree means the inner emotional state and the body/livelihood/local-movement axis are in structural friction — the technical marker for what you are feeling and what your daily-life logistics are doing are not agreeing. This is astonishingly on-the-nose for "the commute is making the work unsustainable." The square is not a permanent condition; it dissolves as the progressed Moon moves toward its Capricorn ingress. But while it is exact, it is naming exactly your presenting problem: the emotional body and the material-transport situation are in a 90° angle to each other. Reading them together: the commute is not a symbol. It is a real friction between where your emotional life is now and where your daily-body-livelihood arrangements were set up when they were set up. The progressed Moon is not asking you to reinterpret this. She is asking you to solve it.

4. What the Capricorn ingress in ~March 2027 signifies for pacing. When the progressed Moon crosses from Sagittarius into Capricorn (approximately March 2027), your emotional register shifts from seeking to building — from the searching, restless, meaning-oriented Sag phase to the disciplined, structural, authority-taking Cap phase (progressed Moon into 7th whole-sign house = partnerships, contracts, the one-across-the-table). Practically: whatever school arrangement you enter next is likely to be one you occupy for the next several years, because you will enter it as a Capricorn-progressed-Moon self who is trying to build a durable structure, not test the waters. This raises the stakes for the choice — not to panic you, but to explain why the retrograde is asking you to be so careful. It is not for the sake of Venus retrograde. It is because the progressed Moon is going to lock in what you decide in this window. Decide once. Decide well.

Reading the whole thing together

The three time-layers converge with unusual clarity:

- Profection (year): 4th-house Libra year, Venus LoY — the year's topic is the base, and the presentation of the base, ruled by an out-of-sect Venus in detriment.
- Progressed Moon (inner-life chapter): completing a Sagittarius-6th chapter about the meaning of daily work, approaching a structural conjunction with natal Saturn (consolidation), square Fortune (body/livelihood friction now).
- Transits (weekly weather): LoY stations retrograde on natal Pluto Sat Oct 3, opposition to natal Mercury and Sun across three passes ending Dec 20.

The three layers say the same thing in three different registers, which is how you know the reading is trustworthy. The year is asking you to change the base. The two-year emotional chapter has already worked out that the current daily arrangement doesn't hold. This week is the week the sky says it out loud. The retrograde is the window to do the work of the change without rushing it. The direct station in November is the moment of clarity. The final Venus-Pluto pass on Dec 15 is the resolution. And the Capricorn ingress in March is when whatever you have chosen becomes the new structural fact of your life.

Synthesis — the week in one paragraph

Front-load Sunday and Monday for outreach and applications while the sextiles are open. Use Tuesday–Thursday for research, careful reading, and one or two hard conversations you've been putting off — expect friction, do not sign anything binding. Friday and Saturday are the pivot: your Lord of the Year stations retrograde exactly on your natal Pluto while the Sun conjoins your South Node at the base of your chart and your own Lord (the Moon) perfects a Last Quarter in her own house on your Ascendant sign. Do nothing irreversible this weekend. Rest. Notice what surfaces. Then let the six-week Venus retrograde do the work it is here to do — review the base, revise the presentation, revisit what you had discarded — and plan to make the actual decision about the school after Nov 13, ideally after Dec 15.

Sources cited above

- Ptolemy, Tetrabiblos, Book I (aspects, sect, out-of-sect benefics).
- Valens, Anthology, Book II (aspect interpretation), Book IV (Zodiacal Releasing).
- Brennan, Chris. Hellenistic Astrology: The Study of Fate and Fortune. Amor Fati, 2017. (Sect, profection, Venus phases, ZR.)
- George, Demetra. Ancient Astrology in Theory and Practice, Vol. I. Rubedo Press, 2019. (Sect essentials, benefic-of-sect analysis.)
- Green, Jeffrey Wolf. Pluto: The Evolutionary Journey of the Soul. Llewellyn, 1985. (Nodes as evolutionary axis.)

- Forrest, Steven. Yesterday's Sky. Seven Paws, 2008. (Softer nodal frame.)
- Greene, Liz. Relating. Weiser, 1976. (Venus-Pluto psychological read.)
- Sasportas, Howard. The Gods of Change. Arkana, 1989. (Outer-planet contacts to personal planets.)
- Rudhyar, Dane. An Astrological Study of Psychological Complexes. Servire, 1966. (Sun-Venus synodic cycle.)
- Rudhyar, Dane. The Lunation Cycle. Shambhala, 1967. (Progressed Moon as inner-life clock.)
- Sasportas, Howard. The Twelve Houses. Aquarian Press, 1985. (Progressed Moon by house.)
- Brady, Bernadette. Predictive Astrology: The Eagle and the Lark. Weiser, 1999. (Progressed Moon to natal Saturn.)

Numerical positions from Swiss Ephemeris via the swisseph-astro skill; all times verified against the natal chart at `natal-chart.md`.

— ♄